Timothy Hanna

Mr. Timothy Hanna, Supervisor of School Police for the Plum Borough School District, is in his first year serving the district.

Officer Hanna's most favorite part of his job is seeing how his focus and attitude towards policing has evolved since being in a school setting. It has transitioned from reactive to proactive. He considers himself very lucky and humbled to be entrusted with keeping the wonderful students and staff of this district safe. It's a responsibility he takes very seriously. He tries to make every decision as if his own child was in any of the buildings everyday.

The advice he would give to students and/or colleagues: "Learning how to learn is the most important thing you will ever learn."

Timothy's father inspired him most. He was the ultimate role model, disciplinarian, friend, confidant and the one person everyone he ever knew looked up to. Mr. Hanna shared that if he turns out to be half the man his father was, he would consider his life a success.

Cool Fact: Officer Hanna has been to every Indianapolis 500 race since 1980!
