Ron Sakolsky

Mr. Ron Sakolsky is a seventh grade social studies teacher and REACH OUT sponsor at Oblock Junior High School. He has served the Plum Borough School District for 25 years.

Ron's most favorite part of his job is the students and community. A "great day" for him is when the building is full of students.

Cool Fact: He has circumnavigated the world!

His advice to colleagues: "Every student comes to your class with a book of blank pages. Do not listen to the past or judge him/her by it. You and the student write the pages for your experience together. You will be amazed by some of the results and the feelings are phenomenal."

His students and REACH OUT members inspire him because they are the motivation that gets him fired up. His sixth grade history teacher, Paul Hochstein from Greenfield Elementary and Pete Dixon from Room 222 were his inspiration as well.

One Last Thing: Mr. Sakolsky thanks the District and community for supporting and caring for REACH OUT. The student-centered club of over 225 plus students has done phenomenal things helping others in Plum, the nation and the world. He lets his actions, reputation, and philosophies speak for him.
